What is Client Communique?

Client Communique is a full-featured program designed by CPA's for business, accounting and finance professionals. Introduced in 2005, Pro-Ware's Client Communique (CC) allows you to easily create and maintain mailing lists for clients, contacts, and associates. CC is much more than a simple contact manager, however. It can print, fax, email, print labels, envelopes, and postcards. Client Communique is designed to be your single repository containing contact information for your business associates, customers, and personal contacts. Client Communique is the easiest and most flexible software program available for maintaining both business and personal contacts and it was designed with business professionals, in mind, all at a very reasonable price.

Client Communique provides maximum utility and flexibility for creating postcard reminders, periodic emails, and any other forms of communication that you need for your clients and customers. As a full-featured contact manager, CC provides input screens for clients, personal contacts, public contacts, personal and public web links, and categories of contacts. Group various contacts as public or private and share the public contacts with the rest of the office while maintaining your own list of private contacts. Private contacts and links are safeguarded for the user who creates them, while public contacts and links are shared with other users of CC.

Client Communique allows you to print envelopes, labels and postcards. Select from a wide variety of labels, postcards, and envelopes. Print a single address, multiple addresses, and grouped addresses which you have pre-defined with a simple click of your mouse. You can set up addresses to print to on-the-fly and then save them for future use.

Client Communique has easy to use lookup screens to find addresses for single or multiple mailings from your private or public contacts. CC comes with a complete listing of federal IRS mailing addresses, so regardless of the label or envelope you are printing, you'll have access to any mailing address for any specific tax return you are mailing. Addresses are also included for the departments of revenue and public boards of accountancy for all 50 states, so no matter what state your clients reside in, you have the correct addresses for any state returns or mailings that you need. CC also ships with addresses for the AICPA, and many other addresses that you may need as an accounting professional.

Client Communique Data Entry Screen!

Data entry is easy, flexible and intuitive. Enter public contacts or web links and save them for use by other users. Enter private contacts and web links for your own personal or professional use. Assign contacts to various groups for mass-mailings, such as postcard reminders. If you already have contacts in Outlook, Yahoo, or a spreadsheet, CC will import them automatically through its import wizard. CC is truly the easiest and most flexible program of its kind. Don't take our word for it, try Client Communique free for 30 days and see for yourself!
